The European Qur'an

Launch Conference

"The European Qur'an. Islamic Scripture in European Culture and Religion 1150-1850" (EuQu) is a six-year research project funded through a synergy grant from the European Research Council (ERC). Its four principal investigators (and host institutions) are Mercedes García-Arenal (Centro de Ciencias Humanas y Sociales, CSIC), John Tolan (Université de Nantes), Jan Loop (University of Kent) and Roberto Tottoli (Università di Napoli l'Orientale). The project studies the ways in which the Islamic Holy Book is embedded in the intellectual, religious and cultural history of Medieval and Early Modern Christians, European Jews, freethinkers, atheists and European Muslims. We will conduct research on how the Qur'an has been translated, interpreted, adapted and used in Christian Europe from the Middle Ages through to early modern times, in order to understand how Islam's Holy Book has influenced both culture and religion in Europe. EuQu will look at the role of the Qur'an in interactions with Islam, in debates between Christians of different beliefs and in critiques of Christianity during the Enlightenment. The six-year project will produce interdisciplinary research through scientific meetings across Europe, a GIS-database of Qur'an manuscripts, translations and other works in which the Qur'an is discussed, and through PhD theses and monographs. It will bring the fruits of this research to non-academic audiences through a creative multimedia exhibition on the place of the Qur'an in European cultural heritage. The kickoff conference in Naples will provide the opportunity for the four Principal Investigators to discuss their program with members of the EuQu advisory board and with other invited scholars.
